The solley inaugurated by Gen. Magruder, of aghting the Yankees whenever they appear, without regard to numbers, is evidently the true theory of conducting the strangile from this time. The enemy should not be allowed to make a step forward without encountering bloody evidence of the fixed and unalterable purpose of our people to resist the intolerable yoke of oppression so extitingly prepared for our subjugation. Walls of mourning must be brought home to sevey household in the North, and the returned carcace of their dead will instruct them, "trumpet-tongued," of their furilities attempt to foll a people thoroughly bent on being free. General Magruder parakes of an intense latted, comparable only to the man whose aversion to snakes led him to kill them, though they were hoffensively exhibited in the menaguic, and when upbraided by the keeper replied. [Ignats Rataky, the long sought for murderer and robber of Slejamund Feliner, has at last been arrested in this city, and will shortly depart for New Jersey, to be tried for his awtin crime. The manner in which the arrest resulted is interesting and nostractive. Some days and Mrs. Snaam McBearon, residing in Franklin county, was waited upon by a man giving his name as H. Teiber, and represented himself as engaged in buying horses for the Government. He bought of her a horse at the stipulated price of 80%, he paying $10 at once, giving his note for the balance, and promising to call soon and pay the remainder. Floding that be miled to appear, she communicated the facts to Folice Chief Cousens, of this city, who, perceiving that "Teiber" was an imposter, instituted a search for him. It was discovered that he resided at Rock Spring, and thither a policeman was sent to arrest him. The officer found him absent, but learned that he was in the habit of frequenting a certain boarding-house on Franklin arenne. "Teiber" was taken to the Chief's office. Upon seeing the prisoner, Chief Coupens was instantly struck with his resemblance to the picture and description of Rataky. The picture exhibited him in a military dress, and Capt. OFFICIAL RESORT TO LHE WAR

On yesterday the enemy, having cut wires, attacked during the night one of brigades. I deemed it my duty to hea person the expedition against Bridgeport started by a train of care in the mornion lowed by two additional companies of cars chartrain.

Information was received at Norfolk yester-day that Capt. McIntosh, the supposed com-mander of the gumbost Louislama at New Or-leans, had been hadly wounded. When or where was not stated.

From another source it was also learned that Captsin Thomas Huger, supposed to be the Commander of the McRae, was mortally wounded in the same engagement.

CINCINNATI, May 2.—The Comm

person the expedition against Bridgeport. I started by a train of care in the morning, followed by two additional companies of cavalry. I found that our pickets had engaged the enemy's pickets four miles from Bridgeport, and after a share engagement, in which we lost one man killed, I drove them across a stream, the railroad bridge of which I had previously burned.

With four regiments of infantry, two pieces of artillery dragged by hand, and two companies of cavalry, as Bridgeport, we advanced to the burnt bridge and opened our fire upon the enemy's pickets off the other side, thus producing the impression that our advance would be by the railroad. This accomplished, the entire force was thrown across the country about a mile and put on the road leading from Stevenson to Bridgeport.

The middle column now advanced at a rapid pace. Our scouts attacked those of the enemy and forced them from the Bridgeport road. We thus succeeded in making a complete surprise.

Immediately forming our line of battle on the crest of a wooded hill, within 500 yards of the works, we constructed to defend the bridge.

At our first fire the rebels broke and ran. Captain Thomas Hager, supposed to be the Commander of the McRee, was mortally wounded in the same engagement.

New York Cons. May L.—A special dispatch to the New York Times, from Fortress Monroo, says three or four robel boats off Sewall's Point to-day, appeared to be placing buoys to mark the channel.

Gen. Premiss and seven hundred Federal prisoners had arrived at Seima, Als. The officers were to be sent to Tailadgea and the privates to Montgomery.

Com. Hollins passed through Columbia, South Carolins, on Saturday, or routs to Richmond. He is amassed at the fall of New Orleans. He states that there were one handred heavy guns in position between Fort Jackson and the city—that the gunboat Louisians was ready and waiting—that aumerous boarding parties were organized to capture the national vessels at all hazerds, and that the gunboat Mississippi, though unfinished, could be brought into action.

From the island to the main shore we contend not save it. It is of small moment. Its length is but 450 feet.

Prisoners report five regiments of infantry and 1,800 cavalry stationed at the bridge.

This campaign is ended, and I row occup Huntsville in periect security, while in at Alabama north of the Tonnessee River float no flag but the old flag.

Hence they have had but little sickness, and one death, while our men have been suffering and dropping away with bilions and typhoid fevers, and with violent diseases engendered by the malarious causes in and about the Barracks. The floors are laid flat on the wet earth, without a possibility of letting the air pass beneath, and in many places more than a food lower than the ground outside. Add to this the ditches and pools of staggant water alongside, and filth beyond measure, and we have the manifest cause for the difference between the saultary condition of the troops in tents and the Barracks. The 2d and 3d regiments while we have been bere | gagement, on Saturday, and some have gone others as they would have others do unto them, the logical conclusion is, that man, divested of the capricions usages of sociaall the principles of moral and political There can be no durable peace till every Strong, brave men, coming here from the North, courted disease—if they get away allve—which unfit them for the service which they were before able to render to their country. But few go out from here sed men, and they go into a debilitating and trying, Southern climate in just the condition to contract diseases incident to coam life and these law countries. Now leaving out of account all considerations of humanity, and taking the narrow, cold view of it as a matter merely of those governments supposed to be most ealous of our increasing strength. If the Republic stand, not slavery alone will fall, but all nations on which we exert social or political influence will receive such an infusion of republican ideas, as to shake to the very centre their monarchial systems. Camp Mann Pittsburg, Tenn, April 21, 1801.

Editors Chicago Tribone:

In your issue of the 18th, is an editorial article referring to the 61st Illinois and its veteran Colonel, in which you alinds to reports in your "own correspondence and other journals," reflecting upon the conduct of this regiment in the late battle. In your remarks you do no more than simple justice to the solder-like qualities of Col. Fry, but it is to be regretted that you should even by inference have ca t any imputation upon the brave men who followed his lead on the memorable 6th. I have not seen the statements on which you base your article, but if they intimate that the 6ist did not do its whole duty, they are grossly incorrect. Our regiment was "raw and undisciplined," It is true, and was exposed to a most terrible ordical but was attended. The people here, as at all points this side of Nashville, Shelbyville excepted, are seenh. Many are despondent and admit our superior strength and their hopeless condition, but the pase your article, but if they intimate that the flat did not do its whole duty, they are grossly incorrect. Our regiment was "raw and undisciplined," it is true, and was exposed to a most terrible ordeal, but was surpassed by none in the fleld for pinck. Whon attacked in the morning, we were in line of battle, about 400 strong, thawing, in common with all the new regiments, a heavy sick list), and maintained our position in front of our camp for over an hour, resisting the approach of the enemy in front, until we were unflanked both upon the right and left, and the order to retreat had been rasic given by Gen. Prentiss. We then fell back about three-fourths of a mile, retreating slowly, most of the boys indulging in an occasional abot at the advancing rebels from advantageons points. Gen. Prentiss, who re-formed his division at this point, gave the filst a high compliment for these courages. We continued under fire all day, at one time supporting a battery of the First Missouri Arthiery, and at another, moving through a terrible cross fire to reinforce Gen. Hurburt, and holding his main position at a most critical period, until relieved orce Gen. Hurlburt, and holdin ition at a most critical period, list as our ammunities second line of defence was broken, the filst fell back near the river, where it lay mader arms all night, and reported itself as ready for duty, to Capt. Gen. Binmore of Prentiss' staff, but was not called into action the second day, as the division was effectually disorganized. There was doubtless the average number of cowards and skulkers in the filst, but the great body of the regiment stood by their colors all day, and came off the field with their flag fying, and conscious of having done their duty. Colonel Fry is justly proud of his regiment, and unwilling to accept any compliments which imply that the filst has a reputation to retrieve.

SATURDAY, MAY 8, 1868 SHARP DEBATE IN CONCRESS. The Committee on Contracts—Re-marks of Washburne in Reply to Conkling.

The dispatch to the associated pre-outline of the assault made by Rose ling on the Committee on Contr-outlied to give a sketch of Mr. Was reply. We supply the peir proper expenses. The Committee glected everything to discharge the role trust reposed in them by the House clamor was raised to disband the Court of the Cou Treasury. While the Committee were ened in their examination, he found, he ail document, the member from Xk besigning the door of the Secretary of to get contracts for his constituents.

If the member was a pretty man to come and lecture the Committee as to the Committee had done! In her reply, he said the history of Department will show that in Louis slone nearly two millions of dollars been saved by the investigation of the mittee. He had been told by Mr. Holt if Congress and the Government sastain ablic money. He repeated that the Cominities knew they would be met. They knew one e paths they had crossed. They knew on were the alders and abettors of the plum or the formatite; of course, for "No rogue e'er left the halter draw With good opinion of the law."

d (Pa.) protested against such nelation. If any persons were be exposed, and he would go the for punishing them. If such tronsge of the Northern Central rearrow, which was enormous, as reported by the figures. The employment of Cummings in concection with the transportation showed that Mr. Cumeron was willing to advance the interelleve, the first to make an assault on the Comber of the Committee encountered no such opposition from the sentleman from Pennsylvanis, the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, in the early stiges of their investigation. It was only when the Committee, in the way of its duty, came to throw itself between the Treasury of the United States and a private speculation in which one Simon Stevens (nephew of Thaddeus) was interested, and through which $80,000 was to be taken out of the Treasury of the United States, without a dollar of consideration, in the simple rale and purchase of five thousand arms by the United States, that the Committee encountered the opposition of the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means. It first manifested itself in selasting the appropriation to pay the expenses of the Committee, and it shen brought out a speech in the House rid.

Mr. Steele (N. J.)—I merely desire to say to the gentleman from Fennsylvania, who says that one of his constituents had furnished coffee to the regiments which came on here at that time, that the coffee sent on here by Alexander Cummings is now in the possession of the Commissary, and has not been distributed at all, for the reason that it was not it for distribution. I had the evidence before me this morning, together with samples of the coffee itself.

Board Adjourns Without Action

Some time last summer or full a committee was chosen to examine the wavehouse frauda. The committee sat time after time, solicited witnesses and textimouy, and they were sup-plied. It is said astounding developments tell them what he had done with his rejected wheat in his house. He did so; but he was terry to say the other warehousemen lid not generally acknowledge the invitation. It was due the warehousemen, however, their business was dependent upon it. They are most stringent rules. The warehousemen will do snything to secure the confidence of the Board. In fact, they must have their confidence of that we should make an effort to reme that we should make an emora to remove,

We are told that you as a Beard have no authority to do this, and the motion to lay upon the table argues the same. He wanted the Board to set without reserve and without reference to what he had said. He did object to Mr. Ballantyne's remaining in the Board. The CHAIR announced, in answer to Mr.

Mr. Warson moved that the whole subject be referred to the Board of Directors to act upon it at their pleasure.

The Chara in this connection read rule 14 and article 9 of the regulations of the Board, as follows:

Most people have a wrong inspression in regard to the sanitary condition of Camp Douglas. A careful estimate develops the fact that the average deaths per diem have been less than three—in fact about two and three-quarters—and this in a population of size thousard, a large portion of whom were in a most deplorable condition when they entered the camp. Ferhaps there is no camp of prisoners in the country so poorly located as this, and yet the fact is celabilished that the deaths have averaged less than in any other. This speaks yet the fact is established that the desths have averaged less than in any other. This speaks well for those in charge of it.

The following is a list of rebel surgeons, prisoners at Camp Douglas. It will be understood that, with a single exception, they are allowed their parole; that is, to visit any part of the city, reporting themselves at headquarters every night. The exception is that of Dr. Toxley, the first named, assistant surgeon of the 19th Alabama regiment. He is a Shiloh prisoner and arrived here on Thursday with fifty-nine others, from St. Louis. About his first easay among a free people was to come up to the city and get liberally drank, for which episode Colonel Mulligan revoked his parole, and he now limits his peregrinations to the inner confines of Camp Douglas. Dr. M. W. Woods, of the 3d Mississippi, is to be exchanged for Lieut. Mississippi, is to be exchanged for Lieu Col. Lewis, of the 2d Iowa, who was capture at Bull Run. Dr. W. pro here he will meet Col. Lewis, who is also OPENING LASALLE STREET.—Preparations to the opening of LaSalle street, from Madison to Jackson streets, have been commenced, and will be prosecuted until the work is completed. This opening of LeSalle street has been a vexed question since 1855. In that year, when real estate was held at enormous figures, a commission was appointed to assess the damages preparatory to the opening of the street. Their estimates, of course, were based upon the current value of real estate, by the Board.

Mr. Hough didn't see it. He wanted the report and evidence read, and what's more, he demanded it. He wanted the warchousemen to have affair chance and know the "damaing evidence" against them. He demanded the LY. Munn (warehouseman) desired to any records.

ROBBERY.—About 8 o'clock Friday morning Mr. Morris, of the firm of Groves & Morris, lumber dealers, 12 South Canal street, left his office for about three minutes, to attend to some business in his yard, leaving his outside door open and his safe unlocked. During his brief absence some hold robber entered the front door, pried open a drawer in his safe, took out $55, and made his escape. There were about $150 in another drawer of the safe, which the rascal had not time to secure.
